Database searching is a multi-step process often requiring many different refinements before discovering the best way to retrieve the most relevant material from each database. At first, this process can be frustrating, but with the chart above, you’ll have the tools to find the information that you need.